Director, Heart Institute In-situ Simulation Program

June 23, 2021 | 10:00-11:00 a.m.

Overview, Target Audience and Learner Outcome

Each quarterly Simulation Best Practice presentation will provide data, examine, and explore evidence-based best practices in healthcare simulation and present nursing and medical based quality improvement projects that have utilized simulation to improve patient outcomes. The target audience for these presentations is any staff currently involved in simulation activities or those with an interest in utilizing healthcare simulation for process or quality improvement. As a result of this series, the learner will be able to incorporate evidence based best practice simulation in quality/process improvement and educational projects.

Simulation Best Practice Series Objectives

1. Provide data, examine and explore evidence-based best practices in healthcare simulation, and present nursing and medical based quality improvement projects that have utilized simulation to improve patient outcomes.
2. Discuss key concepts of simulation best practice.
3. Examine strategies for incorporating simulation for quality and/or process improvement in healthcare.
