Overview and Target Audience

This meeting is specifically for physicians and advanced practice providers (APPs) that work with children facing difficult choices with behavioral/mental health concerns. It will provide knowledge regarding key behavioral/mental health topics that will enable the participant to apply acquired knowledge and best practices with patients in his/her practice.

Educational Objectives

Upon completion of this meeting, participants should be able to:

1. Participants will apply the skills gained to assess and treat mild to moderate behavioral health concerns of anxiety and depression presenting in the primary care setting.
2. Participants will have the skills to interpret pharmacogenomic testing of their patients and apply results following the principles of evidence-based medicine.
3. Participants will be able to describe the medical assessment and monitoring of youth presenting with eating concerns in the primary care setting.
4. Participants will be able to utilize brief components of Family Based Therapy in the primary care setting to address eating concerns with both the patient and the family.
