Overview and Target Audience

The conference features nationally renowned faculty in the fields of pediatric trauma, critical care, emergency medicine and pre-hospital care. Participants will be able to propose practice improvements to their teams based on evidence-based guidelines, scientific inquiry, tools and resources presented at the conference. This event is an unparalleled opportunity to make and solidify relationships through person-to-person communications and marketing.

Educational Objectives

Upon completion of this course, participants should be able to:

- Discuss current national standards of care in managing trauma patients, emphasizing uncommon content areas and ongoing research.
- Interpret requirements and distinguish all necessary preparations required for virtual ACS site visits.
- Summarize common disparities in trauma care and differentiate the innovative standards of care for trauma patients.
- Identify the most recent consensus Arizona-Texas-Oklahoma-Memphis-Arkansas Consortium (ATOMAC) guidelines.
- Recognize current injury prevention strategies and apply COVID-related adaptations.

Learner Outcome

After attending this conference, participants will report increased knowledge related to care of the pediatric trauma patient and report intent to change practice based on new evidence-based practice information provided.

Continuing Education Credit

Continuing Education credits will be provided by Children's Hospital Colorado. Below are the available credit types that a learner can claim by attending this conference.

Cont...
